LIBBY LANGDON

Designer, author and home makeover television personality Libby Langdon is the creative force behind New York City-based design firm Libby Interiors, Inc. Her residential and commercial projects embody her easy, elegant, everyday style and reflect her signature look of combining classic lines with a chic, modern twist.

Libby's design on the cover of House Beautiful magazine's December 2014 issue featured a five-page story highlighting her current NBC TV show, Daykeover with Libby Langdon, where she transforms her client's home from drab to fab in less than 12 hours while sharing her no-nonsense design tips. Her other TV makeovers have been featured on HGTV, The View, The Today Show and The Rachael Ray Show. Her first book, Libby Langdon's Small Space Solutions, offers innovative and inexpensive design ideas to help small space dwellers live large.

Libby is fast becoming known for her growing collections of branded home furnishings products and she enjoys incorporating items she's designed into her TV makeovers and design projects. Her work has been featured in leading design magazines including: Architectural Digest, House Beautiful, Traditional Home, Hamptons Cottages & Gardens and Better Homes and Gardens. Beginning in September 2014, Libby will become a monthly contributor with her own column in House Beautiful magazine. For more information, please visit www.libbylangdon.com.
